Policy:

PA school can be a time of increased demands on a student, both personally and academically. TNU provides a network of support that extends beyond the PA Program to assist students with addressing their personal issues in a timely manner. The TNU Center for Student Development provides academic services, disability services, and counseling services.

Each student is assigned a PA faculty advisor for the didactic and clinical phases of the program. Students are required to meet regularly with their advisor and may request additional meetings as needed. Faculty advisors and course instructors may refer students to academic support services and other support services for personal issues (student support services/disability services, TNU clinic, TNU counseling services). Students who are on Academic Monitoring per program policy may also be recommended for referral to student support services/disability services.

Students may also make their own appointments using the information below. TNU SharePoint sites offer access to these services. The information about these services and procedures to access services is found there and is referenced below:
